Restructuring of the Irish Aviation Authority

The Irish Air Navigation and Transport Act 2022 (the Act) that sets out the legal basis for the restructure of the IAA, has been enacted. The Act provides that the IAA's Air Navigation Services (ANS) and aeronautical communications functions will transfer to a new company, the Irish Air Navigation Service trading as, and to be known as, AirNav Ireland (ANI) www.airnav.ie

The IAA's existing safety regulatory and security oversight (SRD) functions will remain with the Irish Aviation Authority (IAA), the Act also provides for the Commission for Aviation Regulation (CAR) that is responsible for aspects of aviation economic regulation to be dissolved and its functions transfer into the IAA to form a single aviation regulator.

Vesting day, is the day upon which the formal legal transfer of ANS function to AirNav Ireland will take place. This is currently planned for 31st March 2023.
